Leftwing celebrities flooded Twitter to show their support for those seeking to join the armed forces despite the fact that they do not share the standard physical qualifications for service. Jane Fonda, The View co-host Meghan McCain and even President Barack Obama were among the celebrities to take to Twitter to promote the LGBT+ cause. He added: "Make no mistake about it; if we've learned anything from this president, it's that the rights and safety of LGBT folks are woven deeply into the fabric of who we are as a country and a people." Speaking to NBC, The View host Ms McCain said: "I just want to say to the kids watching – the parents and the kids who are questioning, 'What's wrong with being trans? Why are you asking to be in our military?'"
