Hello all. i have experienced the same problem as the guy who wrote the post but with the ELM327 i don't get a yellow light when a fault happens. i tried to put the charge cable in the right way (black cable to black port and red cable to red port) and the setup with "Passed" and "Failed" was automatic. btw, i tried the scanmaster software just a few days ago and it didn't detect any CAN functions at all - i had to switch to PC to see what the error is. the PC detection took a while and after that everything was fine, but i couldn't get an error message. For the J1850-2 protocol, the bus messages are organized in distinct series (Commanded Reset, Command Queue, Diagnostic Access, Diagnostic Read, Diagnostic Write, M-Warning, Parameters) of 0 to 31 the start of the series is not constant. The bus interface is based on the J1850 standard.
