Europe's Leading Virtual Reality Development Company The Bracket is a high end virtual reality development platform that allows you to easily create your own VR experiences. If you want to dive into the world of VR but have no clue where to start, this is the place to be. We're a team of VR enthusiasts working with our own highly-advanced VR engine, called the Bracket. The Bracket is easy to use and can be applied to almost any area of your game. It was developed to allow the industry's most ambitious VR developers the perfect platform for creating and sharing their amazing VR experiences. The Bracket can also be used to create your own experiences such as shooting games, run and jump games, puzzle games, or any other experience you can dream up. At the heart of the Bracket is our proprietary OpenGL platform which allows us to run VR experiences with ultra-high graphics and perfect rendering performance. We combine this with a fast and robust system that supports many VR headsets and other HMDs. We've also created our own VR SDK and have made it free to download. This allows anyone to easily create and release their own VR experiences through Steam, Oculus Rift, Gear VR and Vive. Using the SDK, your VR experience can easily be made with your own custom models and environments, or you can simply choose to play our pre-made ready-to-use experiences. We are extremely proud of our technology and the team we have built, and we would be delighted to chat with you and answer any questions you may have. What's New We've added a new section to our About page for VR developers, with information on what the Bracket is, and how to use it. We've also added the ability to create and edit your own content directly from within Bracket. All your content and settings are saved on our backend, and it allows you to preview and edit your own models in-game, and preview them before releasing them to the world. We've also improved
