Joel Frazier Dec 14, 2018 Farming for ATC/X - A group of 8 farms will be created and assigned to different airport . It is ideal for those with allergies to the ambient noise, flying at night or for those who just want to be the boss and not have a bunch of peasants following the . Ok, so I realize that this has been asked a million times before but I was just wondering what the advice was on getting P3D flying the latest and greatest with it. Ive used SimConnect before when imac was an option. However it never worked with FS9 or P3D. Ive updated P3D, P3D has all the latest updates, SimConnect, FSX, etc. But Im just wondering how I should go about installing it. Please help with a step by step guide. Any one else care to add to this conversation? It has been a long time since I have flown but I got back into it and I love it. I like to fly around the islands and also cross country on it. I'm thinking about getting P3D Pro this time around but Im really not sure what I should do about FSUIPC or SimConnect. I've never used them together. Will that work? How does it impact the P3D air traffic/landing/take off system? I really don't want to have to go back to FSUIPC and I just dont know what to do about SimConnect. If someone can explain how to install them and how they will interact with P3D's air traffic system, it would be much appreciated. I've been using P3D for a couple of years now, about 4 or so, and was just looking for a decent upgrade from FS2004 as well as a way to save time and make it easier to start the day and fly when Im feeling a little bit more motivated. I also wanted to get real time weather, not just a nice map of the world. I was pretty happy with FSX, but it didnt really do what I wanted it to, so I looked into P3D for better plane stability and performance. However, after searching for a week or so I found out that P3D does not yet have FAA and LOS ATC. It does have ICAO and VFR. But I wanted to get ATC in the US. It wasnt a problem to get that, but I wanted to get access to as many airports
