The good thing is that it's free, the bad thing is that it's not a 'free and powerful security utility for safe Internet browsing', it's more of a 'free utility for safe Internet browsing'. That said, I have no problems with its program. It's relatively stable, has no significant problems and doesn't crash often. My only complaint is that it doesn't have a real uninstaller, but instead provides an uninstaller that only deletes registry entries and temp files (that are part of the program). I'm not complaining, I'm just noting that it's not really an 'uninstaller'. It's not a problem, but it's a little strange. Because the application is free, and doesn't have any large volume of configurations to be made in the registry, you can start it up anytime you want to scan your Internet Explorer settings. All settings are in one simple dialog box. It's also easy to define what should be blocked or not, so you can quickly scan your Internet Explorer settings and remove only the malicious sites. The scan process itself is almost instant, so you can scan your Internet Explorer settings in about a minute (while you're at work or at home). The only problem I have with the program is that it's a relatively young application. It is in version 2.0, and is not currently in version 3.0, which makes it a little less stable than it should be. Because

What's New in the Amust 1-Defender?

AMUST 1-Defender is a free and powerful security utility for safe Internet browsing. Run As "User" and be Safe! Adware, spyware, malware, keyloggers, rootkits.... Internet browsing is becoming more and more dangerous. AMUST 1-Defender is a free security utility that offers the first line of defense against malicious web sites and rogue emails which target user computers with spyware, keyloggers, rootkits, viruses and other malware. Imagine you click on a link while searching the Internet with your favorite search engine. The web site you land at turns out to be a malicious site. It uses the latest security vulnerability in Internet Explorer to install spyware, keylogger or rootkit on your Windows computer to track your behavior, steal your personal information or even take over your computer. It does it without you ever noticing anything. 1-Defender will protect you in this scenario by preventing the installation of malware, or limiting the things it can do. 1-Defender reduces and eliminates the risks by allowing users to work with Internet Explorer, Microsoft Outlook and Windows Messenger in SafeInternet mode. SafeInternet Mode protects user PC from malicious software by employing Least Privileged User Account (LUA) that does not reduce Windows usability and flexibility, and does not downgrade users' Internet experience while making Internet experience safer and much more secure. Is it really Free? YES! It is free software and it comes with full support and documentation. What is the license? 1-Defender is free software with the following license. This work is licensed under the GNU General Public License. What is GNU General Public License? GNU is the name of the family of free software that includes a collection of computer programs and files. The Free Software Foundation (FSF) is the main organization that has created the GNU project. What is GNU General Public License? It is a free software license, it means that the GNU General Public License is an open source software license similar to the GPL, the GNU license, but is specifically tailored to software where the copyright and the license are owned by the software publisher and not the authors, the GNU license provides rights for "free software" while the GPL provides rights to "free software". Why is the "GNU license" better than the GPL? The GNU license is an open source software license. The open source license is "public license", meaning that it is free for the developer, the author, anyone to use and change the software, and for any kind of purpose. How does the GNU license work? The GNU license is more permissive than the GPL, it doesn't restrict what you can do with the software. The GNU license doesn't restrict the purpose of the software. Why don't all programs use the GNU license?
