“With this technology, players are able to move and play like never before,” said Warren Smith, vice president of gameplay at EA SPORTS. “We are able to explore a range of new game features and improvements to key gameplay moments that we would otherwise not have access to.” Following the design and play experience on the pitch, the technology is integrated into the gameplay systems, and creates the foundation for realistic player reactions in key moments across the pitch. “In FIFA, we try to capture a range of player emotions such as aggression, competitiveness and disappointment,” said Smith. “These natural reactions are what makes the game live and breathe like a real-life sport. HyperMotion technology allows us to capture those emotions in a more accurate and authentic way, and we are excited to bring that to the pitch this year.” The simulation also includes a host of FIFA Ultimate Team

(FUT) Edition improvements, including the latest cards to equip players with an arsenal of Ultimate Team-ready items such as contracts, boots, and kits. The expansion also includes a team DNA update, where players' game performance and style can now be seen across all official matches, combining the overall performance of the club with details such as the style of play, and personality of the coach. "As the largest and most successful soccer team in the world, we are extremely proud to help EA SPORTS bring the FIFA experience to a new level," said Pep Guardiola. "Our new match engine will deliver a brand-new level of realism and fluidity to player movement and ball physics, with the functionality and freedom that also made FIFA the best football game on the planet."

FIFA Ultimate Team is back and better than ever. Build your very own squad with real players from more than 100 legendary real-world clubs, such as Chelsea, Barcelona, AC Milan and many more. Take your favourite club on a global adventure by managing and competing in authentic UEFA tournaments all around the world. FIFA Ultimate Team includes a complete FIFA season mode, the ability to play online FUT Leagues with friends, and the chance to compete against EA SPORTS players in FIFA Ultimate Team Trophies. Developer's Choice FIFA – FIFA 22 features a broad range of play styles for all fans to enjoy. You can play the game in three modes: Career, Online Leagues and Matchday. In Career, you can test your skills as either a manager or a player, or both at once. If you like, there are more ways to develop your skills and explore the game than ever, with features like Practice mode, Video Interviews and Training Camp. Online Leagues give you more ways to compete with friends and EA SPORTS Pro players, and live streaming is available. MyClub – FIFA 22 brings the community aspect to FIFA, with a huge amount of customisation and creativity, based around The Journey, a game mode inspired by the journeys of real-life club legends like Thierry Henry, Cristiano Ronaldo and Lionel Messi. With The Journey, you play as your favourite club, exploring the world and playing memorable moments from The Journey and FIFA 22’s Pro Clubs. This mode is available in Career, Online Leagues and MyClub. Solo Players – FIFA 22 gives players the opportunity to fight alone in 2v2 and 3v3 online matches. These Multiplayer modes are quick and can be played almost immediately after the initial release of the game. FIFA Ultimate Team Gold Pack – FIFA 22 introduces a new card trading mechanic, which is available in the Gold Pack as well as in the regular game. With a new engine behind it, the Gold Pack not only raises the stakes for gameplay, it also allows you to play online with friends and compete for the best Gold Pack contracts and maximum “Daily Luck.” The Gold Pack is a special pack that you can get only if you
