Photoshop is sometimes criticized for its learning curve. Luckily, there are many free and low-cost training programs to help you. Figure 3-10: On the left, the original portrait is at the top, and the new image is at the bottom. On the right, the new image has been placed beneath the original, with all of the layers merged. The image on the left in Figure 3-10 was created in Photoshop Elements, but if you use Adobe Photoshop, the process would be the same. On the left, a new portrait image was created and placed over the top of the previous layer. Then, the image was flipped horizontally and placed beneath the portrait. All of the layers have been merged and the bottom layer has been hidden. While Photoshop can produce some outstanding results, it's not always suitable for all types of projects. completed in Photoshop. Photoshop Elements is a great program for beginners, but it isn't as popular as Photoshop. That's because it costs a lot less and runs very quickly on many computers. Just be sure to check the system requirements before purchasing. Figure 3-10: Photoshop can make some outstanding images. Figure 3-11: Photoshop Elements provides basic editing tools in a low-cost program. 922 So.2d 178 (2006) Kendall James CALDWELL, Appellant, v. STATE of Florida, Appellee. No. 5D04-4. District Court of Appeal of Florida, Fifth District. December 1, 2006. Rehearing Denied January 12, 2007. *179 James B. Gibson, Public Defender, and Noel A. Pelella, Assistant Public Defender, Daytona Beach, for Appellant. Charles J. Crist, Jr., Attorney General, Tallahassee, and Pamela J. Koller, Assistant Attorney General, Daytona Beach, for Appellee. PLEUS, J. Kendall James Caldwell appeals his conviction and sentence for aggravated battery and the denial of his motion for new trial following his conviction for possession of cocaine. He raises three issues on appeal. The only issue presented in this appeal is whether the State failed to present competent substantial evidence that the cocaine possessed by Caldwell was within the immediate control or control of his person, i.e., that he constructively possessed the cocaine, as opposed to joint control of the premises where it was found. There was evidence presented that Caldwell's mother rented the apartment where the cocaine was found. There was also evidence presented that Caldwell was a frequent visitor to the apartment. Therefore, Caldwell was not denied the right to be present at the trial or denied his right to an opportunity to confront witnesses as no witnesses testified as to the sole issue in the case, i.e., whether Caldwell had possession of the cocaine. Constructive possession is the "ability to exercise a conscious dominion or actual control over a narcotic." Mussell v. State, 848 So.2d 1143, 1146 (Fla. 5th DCA 2003)(citations omitted). Constructive possession requires (1) knowledge of the presence of the illicit drug, (2) the ability to maintain dominion or control over the illicit drug and (3) the intent to maintain dominion or control over the illicit drug. See e.g., Vickroy v. State, 815 So.2d 607, 609 (Fla. 3d DCA 2001)(citing Moss v. State, 613 So.2d 439, 440 (Fla. 1st DCA 1993)). Knowledge of the illicit nature of the substance is not required, see State v. Gaford, 538 So.2d 903 (Fla.
